DESIGN

Right from the beginning, the vision of the new Royal Aviation Museum of Western Canada was to produce a world-class facility. The careful selection and planning of the furnishings reflects that vision. To start, Accent met with the Royal Aviation Museum (R.A.M.) to gain an understanding of the R.A.M. team's desires for their world-class museum. Along with design, quality was top of mind.

PLAN

Accent visited the R.A.M. site during the construction stage to fully understand the facility layout. In turn, the R.A.M. team came to the Accent showroom to explore furnishing options. The Accent team created detailed floor plans of the furniture, along with design suggestions - planning each room and considering each space to ensure an attractive and practical layout.

INSTALL

Once the layout, colours and design were finalized, Accent worked to deliver and install the furniture throughout the entire building.

COMPLETE

At Accent Environments, we stand behind our quality products and do not consider a job complete until the client is 100% satisfied.

“

We've been dealing with Accent more than a year through this process. They are exactly who they said they were at the beginning in terms of their values, their integrity, and going the extra mile numerous times to make sure that we pleased, and never did they ever want us to buy anything that wasn't what we needed or wanted...and at the best value for our price point. It was a very positive experience dealing with people that you can trust.
